Atlantis rollover on hold while T.S. Fay moves across state

◆ Shuttle Update:

Monday's rollover of space shuttle Atlantis to the VAB was postponed due to Tropical Storm Fay. The earliest possible new date is Thursday, depending on the route Fay takes across Florida.

◆ ELV Update: At Vandenberg Air Force Base in California, the IBEX spacecraft was fueled with hydrazine control propellant Aug. 12. This was followed by spacecraft spin balancing Aug. 14. Friday, IBEX was attached to the upper-stage booster. Technicians then performed a final spin-balance test of the entire flight stack on Saturday. After de-integration, the upper stage will be transported to the Pegasus launch vehicle hangar Tuesday. The IBEX spacecraft will be moved there Wednesday.

The Industrial area containers were staged last week at the following facilities: M7-355, M6-0490, M6-342, M6-399, M7-360 and M6-1025. On Wednesday and Thursday, containers were placed in the LCC area in the following facilities: K6-1246, K6-900, K6-1094, K6-1096, L6-146, K6-1547, K6-0894 and K6-696.

The new recycled recyclers are made from 100-percent recycled blue plastic composites and have labels specifying which commodity should be placed in the container. All personnel on KSC are encouraged to take their empty PA&G containers and place them in the proper bin. Please help sustain this program by incorporating your used containers into this new KSC Recycling program.

Please remember, once you place your used PA&G containers into the government-provided container, they become the property of the U.S. Government and can only be removed from the recycling stations by Bridges BTC, Inc.
